MEMORANDUM FOR: MR. DAVID N. PARKER
FROM: ALEXANDER P. BUTTERFIELD
SUBJECT: The President's December 1973 Calendar

Dave:

In today's quick meeting with 96-1/2 year old former State Senator M. Harvey Taylor, the President made very strong the point that he wanted to see his elderly friend again next year. In fact, he went on to say that he wanted "ol Harv" to come back every year as long as he (the President) was in the White House. Incidentally, there is every reason to believe that the former State Senator will be around for at least that long. He looks a good 30 years younger than his actual age, stands erect, dresses like a college sophomore, smiles perpetually and talks incessantly. He bounced into the Oval Office like a rubber ball and throughout the entire 10-minute session with the President played to the hilt the role of the excited kid. Immediately afterward, he held forth for an appreciative White House Press Corps and was dancing his third jig when Ziegler and several aides pounded on him and dragged him away. I don't want to say that he is a wild man, but when I saw him last, he had one hand through the arm of a pretty 20-year old secretary he had just asked for lunch at Sans Souci and was pinching the West Wing receptionist with the other.
